YUNNANESE FORCES DRIVEN FROM CANTON

HONGKONG, June 12. — The Tunnanese invaders have been overwhelmed and driven from Canton by the Cantonese forces, which are allied with tre Kuomintang's most radical faction. The Cantonese began the bombardment early this morning using shrapnel and about noon the attack started.

The Tunnanese general. Tan Yen-Tal, moved in from the west along the Cantone-Shamshui Railway, while volunteers under Russian officers attacked from Whampon, where the shippards and mill-tary academies are situated.

The Cantonese on Honan Island, in the meanwhile had crossed the river and gained a footing. The Yunnanese then retired northward, leaving Canton entirely in the hands of the Kuomintang.

Earlier rejorts foday had stated that the Kuomintang forces were drawing the cordon tighter around Canton and had been joined by the remnants of the army of Chen Chiung-Ming, former ally of Sun Yat Sen.

The Issue now is stated to be no longer one between the pro-Communist and anti-Communist sections of Kuomintang, but between the Cantonese and other provincials.

"Please omit flowers."

It was thought the height had been reached when $35,000 was ex-pended for flowers at the funerals of "Mossy" Enright and Dion O'Banion. Then came the funeral of a dead Sicilian leader, in which a wax image of him was carried at the head of twenty truckloads of flowers.

A few days ago Angelo Genna was cornered by rival gangsters and shot to death. Flowers sent to his funeral cost approximately $50,000. Now it is up to the friends of Walter O'Donnell, fatally shot in a battle among criminals early Sunday morning's battle to show their appreciation. His brothers have placed orders for $5000 worth of flowers, and it is estimated that the total expenditure for this item will run to $50,000 or $60,000. Harry C. Hassmilles, asserted to have been brought from Bayonne, N. J., to do some killing, and who was slain in Sunday's battle, will have no flowers, as he was an imported product. Near Glendale is one of the decidedly interesting statements made the other day at a meeting of the local chapter of the American Drama League of America by Henry Kolker, noted actor of the legitimate stage, who opens Monday in a two-weeks' engagement of "Ambush," at the Pottbiller Art Theater.

Kolker same to California for a rest following a nervous breakdown brought about by making motion pictures in Eu-rope, and after talking with many professional people here he said he came to the conhe said he came to the con-clusion that California and es-pecially Los Angeles was the the last logical place in which the real American theater could be established.

"During my long professional career in New York and Chi-cago I had watched the growth of the little theater movement as typifying the American the-ater," Kolker said.

HEN I came to this coast I felt that all the elements were there for the establishment of the theater of real drama. First of all, you have a climate in which most things artistic should thrive. Secondly because of your enormous motion-picture business a larger number of competent actors and actresses are here at all times than in any other city in America, with the exception of New York.

"My experience of over thirty years on the stage has convinced me that every sincere artist in the various branches of the theater has the eventual establishment of the truly American theater very near to this heart. And that any movement which looks toward the founding of an American theater in this community will have a wide variety of real talent at its command.

"I feel pretty certain that the men who control the purely commercial theater who are at present operating entirely with New Tork as a base are beginning to look seriously in this direction. This community beginning to look seriously in this direction. This community must have a beacon light showing the way in the same manner as the Theater Guild in New York. This is the psychological moment to make the break, and that is why I am heart and soul back of the Potboller Art Theater of your city."

wo-weeks' engagement of "America".

6 In Continuation of their policy of endeavoring to offer a little of everything, but only the best of anything," the Pagadena Community Players are going to jump from Chinese fantasy, in which they have disported for the last two weeks, to ultramodern satirical comedy.

The mext vehicle for this talented Pasadena group is to be Kaufman and Connelly's "To the Ladies," which will open Thursday night, the 18th inst., for eleven performances. Those who know Pasadena opine that this is a particularly keen choice for affording that great "dining city" a laugh at its own habits, for "To the Ladies," is a delicious satire upon the public dinner habit of present-day America—a habit in which Pasadena practice is declared hardly excelled anywhere. But, aside from satire, the play is significant in its representation, simply and with sincerity, of the love of a clever young woman for her conceited, but not very able, husband. Moreover, even, these sophisticated playwrights send their audiences sway from "To the Ladies" with the conviction that illusions are the thing to cherish in life, after all.

Helen Jerome Eddy of film fame, will find a congenial role in "To the Ladies" and again is contributing of her talents to the work of the Pasadena Community Playhouse. Director Gilmor Brown, who has been appearing in "The Lady of the Lamp," the Earl Carroll Chinese fantasy, which the players have just been giving, finds himself rather against his policy to be forced to take the stage again immediately in "To the Ladies," owing to the gudden withdrawal of that, talented annateur comedian, william E. Reis. The rest of the company is a highly can.

FOLKSONGS HOLD

BY FRANCIS KENDIG

The public should be devoutly thankful that the fates which decree talents did not give Grace Wood Jess a grand opera coloratura. For singers of the flexid aria we have a plenty, and it is only rarely we hear those lovely, plaintive and heart-throbbing songs of common peoples.

This interpreter of folksongs presented one of her inimitable programs yesterday in the latimate music salon at the Biltmore. Truly a program of charm. Wearing a half dozen costumes during the course of the afternoon, she carried her listeners eagerly from one country to another, and always she centered her attention on the heart-interests of a people. It is this which makes her interpretations so utterly compelling.

Her first songs were bayou ballads of the South, and plantation songs. Then came Spain, Germany, Russia and France. Before each song she told, in beautifully chosen phrases, and with bits of pantomime as fresh as spring itself, the story of each song. She made every song live, and that is 39 per cent of interpretation.

It is a bit regrettable that her

and that is 39 per cent of interpretation.

It is a bit regrettable that her mezso-soprano is not just a little mellower and richer, because it is only this which keeps her frem achieving perhaps even national or world renown. She reminded me somewhat of Yvette Guilbert and Isa Kremer, two other singingactresses who have devoted themselves to the expression of the rich folklore of many countries.
Raymond McFecters presided at the plane, giving her the most delightful support, mirroring at his instrument every piquant nuance of

There will absolutely be no men allowed and the entire theater will be operated by female projectionists and unherettes. The show will start at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Early Norman, who, with Duci de Kerekjarto, will hold over and share honors with Wallace Eddinger at the Orpheum next week will put on a complete new act then, with an entire change of songs and gowns.

In the way of clothes, Norman has been a revelation to feminine Los Angeles, and in some of his frock displays he has astounded the city. He has a lot more of these sensations in his wardrobe for display Monday. Eddinger, by the way, was the first "Little Lord Fauntleroy" so you can judge that he has had a life-time of stage experience.

The Berkeley girl has a wonderfully well rounded game and its variety is too great for the one-track driving game of Mrs. Mallory, If Miss Wills is beaten it will probably be by somebody who plays better tennis and the only person we've seen with better strokes than Miss Wills is our own Mary Browne.

The next time the boys stage a big boxing match here they'll think twice before they do it. When a man can do what Dick Donald did—play to a . 355,009 house, and them not make any money—there's something very decidedly wrong. The performers are entitled to just what they can draw at the gate and the promoter is entitled to his share for staging the affair. Donald never should have ganranteed the boxers the will probably be

Cram Here to Vie With Star Junior Players

Match Slated at Hollywood

Donald Cram of Nashville, Tenn., who holds the title in the juntor tennis tournament for the entire South, will arrive here today to visit his aunt, Mrs. Willard G. Cram of 2879 Sunset Place. He expects to ehter a number of the junior tournaments in the south this year.

The records show that he won easily in the tournament held at Chicago. Ill., last summer, and came out of the field as a dark horse. He is marked for his coolness and the case with which he plays on both offensive and defensive.

An interesting thing in connection with this young man is that he learned the tennis game in Korea (Chosen,) while domiciled there as the son of Willard G. Cram, who was in charge of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mission. Young Cram was born in Korea and lived there all his life, with the exception of about three years spent in this country.

In many ways the mosque is the more interesting of the two structures which give the gardens an air of bygone times——[Exchange.

You Should Go To Church

Because the church is God's right arm.

Because the church is a spiritual power house.

Because the church is the meeting place of the children of God. Because your mother and father loved, served and were blessed by the church.

5. Because it has been preserved for you by the blood of martyrs. 6. Because the business of the church is religion and religion is the most important business on earth.

The French government is now more heavily indebted, compared to the resources of the country, than any other of the Allied powers, with the possible exception of Italy. He excuses delin what they have done. He excuses quant-quencies of the past by promises for the future. If the loan which he proposes could be negotiated France would probably enjoy a brief term of renewed prosperity, although it is doubtful whether any perms nent benefit would result.

But the game of running governments on borrowed money has been overworked dur-ing the last ten years. Investors are be-coming captious about national security. There have been too many repudiations in Europe for all governmental securities to be longer regarded as gilt-edged.

It may be all very fine for the French Minister of Finance to enthuse the French Chamber and press by proposing to borrow of the investors of the United States the money to make installment payments on the money owed to our government; but hardheaded and unimaginative financiers may not share this ebuilient spirit.

In preprohibition days whisky often was referred to as "red-eye." But now that wood alcohol concoctions are blinding so many people it might more appropriately be called "dead-eye."

DR. COOK'S SHORT CUTS

Dr. Frederick A. Cook is a shining example of what taking a "short cut" will sometimes do for a man, for he believes in the "short cut" and has practiced it on the grand scale. His first "short cut" was the falsification of records in an effort to establish himself as discoverer of the North Pole; his second was the illegal manipulation of oll stocks in an effort to "get rich quick." The first short cut brought him scientific disgrace and public humiliation; the second cost him around $35.000 in a fine and costs and fourteen years' prison term, augmented by sixteen months spent in jail pending decision of his appeal. Cais killed Abel, so the entire special creation population of the earth was then three people. Cain got a wife. From where? Who was she? She must have had a father and mother, as there is no mention of any further "special creations." But we are told that "the children of God took to themselves wives from among the daughters of men." These daughters must have had parents. Who were these men and where did they come from?

Such laws as the Tennessee Legislature enacted and the consequent litigation and the agitation of the evolution theory which Bryan is fostering will be one of the worst backfires the church has received in recent years, for it will call people's attention to the unexplainable features of the biblical account of creation.

If there were other people besides those involved in the special creation of Adam and Eve they would not be affected because of that apple. No connection with the apple, no fall. No fall, no original sin. No original sin. No criginal sin. No call for redemption. Me call for redemption. The call for redemption that religion. As a matter of fact, no one knows how life originated in our universe. The theory of "special creation" does not explain anything, for it is as easy to assume that life is self-existent as that an arbitrary delty, capable of producing all this, is self-existent. The Creator is always greater than the thing created and, therefore, the farther we go back into infinity the greater becomes the task of creation.

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—(To the Editor of The Times:) I have read with some interest and a great deal of amusement the letter of Dean Rockwell Hunt in regard to "demon rum." It was interesting because coming from such a distinguished educationalist, and amusing because of its William Jennings Bryan phraseology and its Dwight Moody theology.

The men today who are lifting voices against the manifold follies of prohibition are viewed as "demon rum devils," but it will be different in a few years, when the whole country will come to its senses and realize that prohibition was a great joke practiced upon it in a "weak moment" by a few old maids, hell-bent-for-heaven divines and long-armed and long-winded school-teachers.
